EXPRESS OFFICE AT BAYARD IS ROBBED

Cattlemen From Silver City to Attend El Paso

Meeting. Sliver City, N. M., Feb. 6.—Two men, who had taken an ore car at lanta Rita, stopped at Bayard station long enough to break into the railrond station and steal several express packages. Then they resumed their journey on the ore car. The value of the stolen packages has not been determined.

A WORLD OF GOOD

The Painful Experience of Mrs. Marvin, and How She Found Help, by Herself.

Sheldon, S. C .- "For more than three years," says Mrs. J. B. Marvin, of this place, 'I suffered with womanly troubles, and none of the doctors that treated me could do me any good.

I also had pains in my left side so bad at times I could hardly get up. Finally I tried Cardul, and soon I began to feel better. I took only a few bottles, but now I am perfectly well and able to do anything. Carduj has done me a world of good. It certainly cured me of the trouble I had, and I am getting along nicely.

I have recommended the remedy to other sufferers, and they have all been benefited by it.

I will always keep Cardul in my home for use in time of need."

There can be no doubt that the Prench alliance was of incalculable benefit to us. As Fisk remarks: "Both in itself and in the European compilications to which it led, the action of France very seriously crippled the efficient military power of England. It locked up and neutralized much British energy that would otherwise have been directed against the Americans."

In addition we must reckon on the direct benefit that came to us from the six or seven thousand soldiers that were sent over by France, who, in conjunction with the French fleet did such splendid service at Yorktown.

By the consensus of the ancient opinion Pythagoras was the first to coin the word "Philosopher." He called himself not sophist (wise man), but philosopher (lover of wisdom). He was the founder of mathematics. The Descartes of the ancient time, he created the science of geometry, which he made the very basis of his system of teaching.

He is said to have discovered the great truth in music, that changes of sound are indissolubly connected with and dependent upon the changes in length and tension.

He was the originator of the word cosmos" (order, harmony), as applied to the system of nature. The forst to teach the idea of natural law, he declared that the universe was a beaudtiful harmony, law assisting law, and all laws working together to produce "cosmos"—beauty and perfection rather than chaos and confusion.

Hence his calcurated "Music of the

Hence his celebrated "Music of the Spheres." He did not mean that the suns and planets made an actual music which could be heard by the outer ear, but that there was music in the contemplation of the cosmos—the beautiful system of worlds all held together in perfect harmony by the laws of nature.

Quite in keeping with his theory of natural law was his famous teaching that the "first principle of all things is numbers." Each individual thing Is numbers." Each individual thing may change the position, its mode of existence; all its peculiar attributes may be destroyed but one, namely its numerical attribute. It is always one thing. Nothing can destroy that besic fact. Two is but the relation of one to one. All modes of existence are but finite aspects of the infinite, as all numbers are but numerical relations of the one. In the original one all numbers are contained. In a word, one is the beginning of all things. Such in substance is the celebrated doctrine of numbers as taught by the bid sage numbers as taught by the bld sage

We might properly expect to find that he was tiking notes about people, government, canals and armies.

But what would we think if we found that instead of notes on these things he was quietly jotting down such state-Be not satisfied with a superficial view or things.

5. The best way of revenge is not to initate the injury.
There was once a man who did just this thing. He was emperor of the fleman people, and his name was Marcus Aurelius. Although he was ruler of the greatest empire on earth in his time, and as busy as a banker, who lives to make more money every day, he always had that notebook with him.
Whether he was at home in Rome or had that notebook with him.

Whether he was at home in Rome or in the council chamber, or in a distant province sitting by a camp fire, he attended strictly to the business of being an emperor, but the moment this business taught him anything about life, he lootled it down in his book Some day.

empire, or how I shoot wild animals; it was just a pieln statement of what the man found out about life, and how to live it to the best advantage.

Even the milkman can write such a book if he wants to. All he needs to do is to have his notebook handy and jot down the things he learns as he drives from one house to the next.

Of course the milkman could not make a book like the emperor's, but, on the other band, the emperor could not make one like the milkman's.

This book of Marcus Aurelius was written in Latin. It has been translated written in Latin. It has been translated into many languages, English among them, and every library has a copy. You can get it for the asking, and read what there is in life that is worth while to an emperor, to a milkman, and to yourself. It is easy to read, of simple words, simple sentences and simple ideas. That is always the way a great book is made.

Housework Draidgery!

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and as Mrs. Briggs and others testify : It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, heafs inflammation and ulceration. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep. Dr. Pierce is perfectly willing to let everyone know what his "Pavorite Prescription" contains, a complete list of ingredients on the bottle-wrapper. Do not let any druggist persuade you that his unknown composition is "just as good" in order that he may make a higger profit.

MRS. BRAZILL BRIGGS, of 529 N. Washington St., Delphos, Ohlo, writes: "Having taken your 'Favorite Prescription, for a bad case of intestinal disease and constipation with woman's ills, for which I was almost unable to do anything, I think I am safe in saying that there are no remedies in the world like Dr. Plerce's Favorite Prescription and 'Purifying Lotion Tablets.'
